Several area beauty queens were at the Calvary Home for Children tent at Freedom Weekend Aloft to promote the efforts of the organization which takes in abused and neglected youngsters. They were also keeping the memory of Leslie Ann Mazzara alive. Mazzara, a former Miss Williamston who participated in Miss South Carolina Scholarship Pageant, adopted Calvary Home for Children as one of her causes. She was killed seven months ago in Napa California. A film crew from 48 Hours was also at FWA to film for "48 Hours: Mystery," a documentary about Mazzara's death. The murder remains under investigation, Napa police officials said.
